Peter DUTTON MP

Federal Member for Dickson

I am pleased to provide you with the Dickson Seniors' Guide, a comprehensive directory designed specifically to assist the seniors in our local community.

The guide contains a wide range of helpful information including contact numbers for emergency services, federal government departments, social support and local community groups.

I am proud to represent you and your interests in Federal Parliament and it is vital that our nation gives back to our seniors who, through hard work and sacrifice, have built the foundations to help make Australia a great and prosperous nation.

Actively listening to the concerns of seniors in Dickson has always been a priority of mine, starting from when I hosted the first Dickson Seniors Expo in 2004. This annual event provides an opportunity for seniors to access a multitude of information, engaging activities and essential services, all conveniently available in one place on a single day.

I hope the Seniors' Guide is an invaluable source that connects you with the services that you need.

If you require further assistance, including information on my annual Dickson Seniors Expo, please do not hesitate to reach out to me.

Yours sincerely

Anniversary or Birthday Milestone Messages

Australian citizens and permanent residents celebrating a significant birthday or wedding anniversary can receive personal messages of congratulations from:

- the Prime Minister
- the Governor-General
- His Majesty The King

Messages can be requested for the following occasions

	50th Wedding Anniversary	50th plus Wedding Anniversary	90th Birthday	90th plus Birthday
Prime Minister	Yes	Yes	Yes	Yes
Governor-General	Yes	Yes	No	100th and every year thereafter
The King	No	60th and every fifth year thereafter	No	100th and every fifth year thereafter

How to arrange a message

There are two options you can choose from to submit a request for an anniversary message.

1. Visit my website www.peterdutton.com.au and submit an online application. Supporting documentation must be uploaded at the same time as you submit your request.
2. Contact my office on 07 3205 9977 and request a form to complete. Return it to my electorate office together with a copy of the supporting documentation.

You will need to provide supporting documentation such as a birth certificate, marriage certificate or other official documentation showing the relevant details. If these are not available you can provide a statutory declaration (with full name/s and date of birthday/wedding anniversary).

When to arrange the message

All requests need to be made a minimum of 5 weeks before the date of the anniversary or birthday. If this year's celebration has passed, you can still request a belated message up to six months afterwards.

Scam Safety Tips

Avoiding scams

Here are some top tips for recognising and avoiding scams and tricks on the internet.

On the internet, you cannot always be sure that people are who they say they are. Being aware of internet tricksters is one of the most important steps towards avoiding them. Once you know their tricks, you should be able to spot a scam easily.

The phishing scam

Phishing scams are the most common form of scam on the internet. They usually start with an email, text message or phone call that seems to be from a business you trust, asking you to 'confirm' your account details. When you confirm your details, they're actually being gathered by the scammer.

If you get an email asking for personal information, you should follow these steps:

- Don't open pop-up windows.
- Don't click on any links in the email.
- Delete the email.
- Help others know about the scam by reporting it to the Australian Competition and Consumer Commission's (ACCC) ScamWatch website.

If you're really worried, you can always call the company that the email appears to be from directly. Just be sure to use your own contact information – not anything in the email.

Unexpected money

With this scam, you receive an email promising a lot of money in the future for a small upfront fee. Some examples include:

- An 'inheritance' that you can get if you only pay an admin fee.
- A 'lottery' that you've won, but you need to pay a fee to get paid out.
- A big payout in the future if you just help someone out right now.

If someone you don't know contacts you and offers a lot of money for a small upfront payment, it's probably a scam. Ignore that person and delete the email or text message.

Money for nothing

These are scams that ask you to pay money for something that doesn't exist. Look for things like:

- Emails offering the opportunity to join a major investment opportunity, at a heavily discounted rate.
- People on dating websites that express deep affections for you very quickly, but then ask for help with medical and other expenses.
- Fake charities that contact you after major disasters.
- Callers telling you that there's a problem with your computer or your tax return.

These are likely to be scams and should be ignored.

Learning more about scams

The best place to report and learn more about scams is the Australian Competition and Consumer Commission's ScamWatch site, which can be found at: www.scamwatch.gov.au

Knowledge is power

Scams are intended to take advantage of your good nature, but if you're careful about sharing personal information online, use common sense about who you give money to, and keep your guard up, the internet can be a safe place to explore.

Getting help

If you run into trouble online, don't panic! There are places you can go to get help, and things you can do.

Scam Safety Tips

I suspect I'm being scammed

If you think you've been the victim of a scam, don't be embarrassed and don't keep it to yourself.

There are steps you can take to fix the problem:

1. Contact your bank and stop any further payments to the scammer.
2. Report the scam to the ACCC (Australian Competition and Consumer Commission). Head to www.scamwatch.gov.au for help with reporting and understanding scams.
3. Raise awareness. If there's anybody else you know who might be a victim, let them know.

I think my computer has a virus

If your computer starts acting strangely, it may have contracted a virus. Some common signs of a virus include:

- Messages that say files have been locked and you need to pay to unlock them.
- Programs that won't start.
- Websites that open when you don't want them to.
- Ads that popup and cover your computer screen.
- Your computer works very slowly.

If you think you have a virus, just follow these steps:

1. Open your antivirus software and run a manual scan. This might pick up any problems.
2. If you subscribe to a paid antivirus program, call its help line. Part of the price of the subscription should include access to a help hotline.
3. Call computer support. If both the above don't work, it's time to call help. Start with either a computer savvy relative or find a local computer help service.

I think somebody has access to my passwords

If you think that one of your internet accounts has been accessed by somebody else, then the most important thing to do is to change your password as soon as possible. Go to the website, then find the 'Help' section, and the part where you can change your password.

I think someone has stolen my identity

If you think you are a victim of identity theft, it is important that you act quickly to reduce your risk of financial loss or other damages.

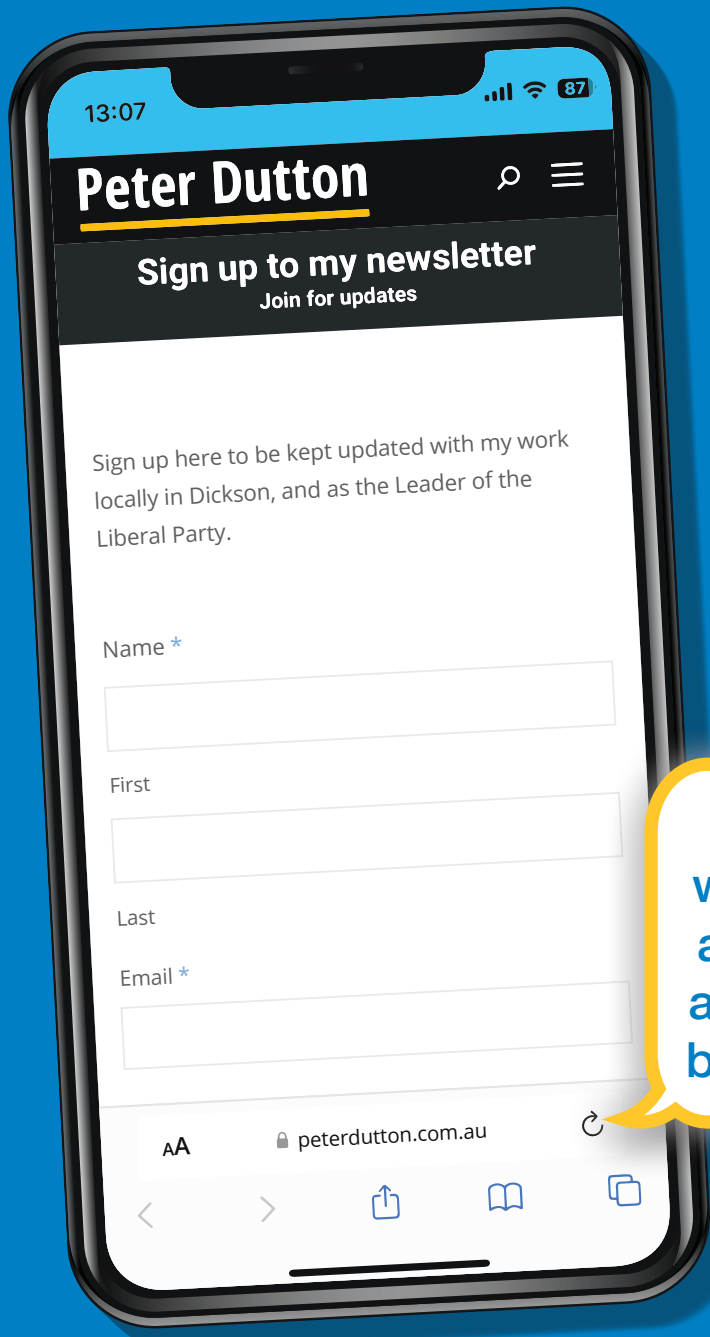

You can:

Contact IDCARE- a free government-funded service which will work with you to develop a specific response plan to your situation and support you through the process. Visit the IDCARE website www.idcare.org or call 1800 595 160.

Apply for a Commonwealth Victims' Certificate - a certificate helps support your claim that you've been the victim of identity crime, and can be used to help re-establish your credentials with government or financial institutions. Visit www.homeaffairs.gov.au/about-us/our-portfolios/identity-security/identity-recovery for more information.

Knowing when to get help

Perhaps the most important thing of all is knowing when to seek help. Don't be embarrassed that you have a problem – people have them all the time – and find someone who will help. Perhaps it's the anti-scam folks at the ACCC, or a technically-minded friend or family member, or even a local computer technician. There's always someone who can help.
